Justin Shinebourne joins Finsbury to build its new European Equity Advisory practice

Finsbury, the global strategic communications consultancy, today announced that Justin Shinebourne has joined the firm as a Partner in London, where he will build out a new Equity Advisory practice.

Justin brings 25 years of experience in markets and investment banking. As Head and then Chairman of Equity Advisory Europe at Barclays Investment Bank, he provided strategic counsel to companies across EMEA on all matters related to their valuation, market impact and communication.

Prior to the Equity Advisory role, Justin had 17 years Equity Sales experience at Morgan Stanley, HSBC and Barclays, the last seven of which were as a Head of European Equity Sales. While at HSBC, Justin was a Member of the Regional Equity Management Committee responsible for developing and implementing strategy across Research, Trading and Sales to form a cohesive brokerage business.

James Murgatroyd, Managing Partner, said:

"Justin is a real Equity Advisory expert and his strong experience in financial services and investor relations will be an invaluable addition to our capital markets offering. We are delighted he has agreed to join Finsbury at this exciting time in our own development. His appointment underscores our commitment to offering clients communications solutions that meet all their most important stakeholders' needs."

Justin Shinebourne, Partner, said:

"I'm thrilled to be joining the Finsbury team and especially excited as the firm moves quickly to expand its global platform with Finsbury Glover Hering. By joining equity advisory with the firm's leading capital markets and M&A capabilities, we will offer clients even deeper expertise and advise around the evolving focus of investors."
